

FREELANCER SUMMERTIME

2010 sees RAYMOND WEIL add a zest of panache to its ladies' watch collection with the freelancer summertime – an ultra-stylish mechanical timepiece blending audacity, modernity and refinement in a range of citrus tones and natural colours.

The elegant, refined freelancer summertime offers a delicious mix of freshness and emotion, with its subtle interplay of materials and colours, and its distinctive blend of magical diamonds and watchmaking know-how.

The 38mm case in polished and brushed steel, and sparkling circular bezel spangled with diamonds of exceptional purity, encapsulate the Spring mood of this exclusive timepiece. The originality of the highlights to the dial, with their natural or powder-like nuances according to model, is reinforced by dazzling indexes in the form of a further twelve full-cut diamonds.

RAYMOND WEIL Watches – renowned for achieving a perfect balance between technical sophistication and design – has devoted loving attention to the aesthetics of this new timepiece, whose horological personality is embodied by the mechanical movement with automatic winding to be found at its heart.

Adding the finishing touch is a saddle-stitched, full-skin alligator strap perfectly matching the glittering, glamorous tone of each individual model and which, thanks to its folding clasp with double push-piece security, fits snugly to any wrist.

The freelancer summertime: a chic, sparkling cocktail for sensuous, stylish women!
