RAYMOND WEIL

RAYMOND WEIL is the name of a Swiss watchmaking Maison and that of a family which has for almost half a century been embedding its values at the very heart of its watches.

Belonging to the privileged circle of independent family businesses, it creates elegant and refined watches for women and men. Founded in 1976, it is now headed by Elie Bernheim, grandson of the founder who gave his name to the company. Across three generations, the Geneva-based firm has been pursuing its development and steadily consolidating its status as a leading light in the Swiss watch industry.

GENÈVE

RAYMOND WEIL is the Official Time Partner to the BRIT Awards and is a longstanding associate. The watchmaker is one of few brands that uses the inspiration of music as the basis for its watch designs, initially naming collections after its founder's passion for opera, right up to collaborations with globally recognized artists such as The Beatles, David Bowie and Frank Sinatra.

RAYMOND WEIL prides itself on supporting emerging and established talent and partners with music arenas such as The SSE Hydro and Manchester Arena. It is a longstanding partner to Nordoff Robbins, raising much needed funds during its many of collaboration.

Building on more than 40 years of experience, the Swiss watchmaking Maison brings to the forefront the watchmaking skills and expertise patiently acquired in Switzerland over the centuries. Precision, quality, reliability, nobility and high-tech materials are the demanding standards of a philosophy that earns it the much-coveted 'Swiss-made' label.
